THE Springfield Fair will commence October 1, and continue four days. Last year all who came to be the best District Fair in the State, and the managers determined to make this better than the last. For this end they have arranged their previous list; and having a central locality, with extensive and beautiful grounds, ample provisions for stock, and an abundance of good water, both for stock and people, even in this dry time, encourage the owners to believe they can make this the Fair of the season.

TO CONSTITUTIONISTS:—Your Friends in the South have just received another proportion of his fine flavored and exciting smoking cigar, Garibaldi, and we would advise country merchants, hotels, bar keepers, etc., etc., who want the best, cheapest and finest flavored cigar that is imported to this country, to call on Mr. D'Urio, and lay in a stock of his fine Garibaldi brand. Mr. D'Urio's establishment is on Main street, second door below Louisville Hotel, where a large assortment of delicious foreign fruits, pickles, preserves, etc., &c., can be found, in any quantity.

Merchants visiting this market would do well to examine the stock of J. M. Baldwin & Co., 615 Main street, before making their purchases. They will find a large assortment of rich dress goods, merinoes, dainties, traveling goods, linens, white goods, shawls, cloaks, gloves, bonnets, ribbons, embroideries, etc., and a full stock of their woven wool skirt slacks at lowest prices.

ENTERTAINMENT.—A party in attendance at the St. Louis Fair announced themselves at the hotel by throwing their hats at the chamberlain.

The Cannibals give so many balls to the Prince that one would infer that they were a dancing terrorist, round-winding devils from their deserts.

THE regular fall meeting over the Lexington Course commenced yesterday.

—After the occasion of open-air public meetings at the courthouse, the steps and approaches need not be so disorderly.

—We are sorry to learn that two young ladies have been shot at the foot of the steps, which, though rather heavy and dangerous, will be of great utility.

—On Sunday night there was one of the most magnificent sunsets we ever beheld. The whole west was aglow with golden light, while in the east two brilliant rays spanned the arch of heaven.

—The rain that fell all day was refreshing, but came too late, even if it fell over a wide range of country, to do much good to the crops—the failure of which makes tight times, financially, in the city.

—The whole of down town, or that portion of it that drinks and fights, was on a big Sunday evening, and the officers made half a dozen or more arrests. The Police Court will show.
